—Chesnut trees are in full bloom, and if the abundance and wealth of blossoms may be relied upon the crop should be a bumper this fall. It is not always the case, however, that a full blown chestnut tree develops a full crop of the good brown nuts. Butternuts and walnuts also promise a large yield.

—The old design of the nickel is to be superseded by another. Secretary MacVeigh has decided to replace the Goddess of Liberty with a Buffalo. The reverse side of the nickel will bear an Indian head. The new design is being made by J. W. Frazer, of New York. The Buffalo nickel will be issued within a few weeks.

—Stephen Stroup, of Kennerdell, a well known and highly respected resident of Rockland twp., Venango county, died Monday at his home, aged 82 years. He is survived by one son and three daughters. The deceased was an uncle of our townsmen, ex-Sheriff Stroup, and was well known to many of our older citizens.

—Congressman Patton of the 21st district has notified Alfred Evans, chairman of the McKean county Republican committee, that he has been appointed postmaster at Kane, vice R. K. Godding deceased. There has been quite a squabble over this vacancy since the death of the incumbent, but Mr. Evans' appointment seems to be quite satisfactory to the patrons of the office.

—Says the Derrick: C. W. Van Tassel of Corry, who is in charge of the teaming work on the new farm of Hon. Joseph C. Sibley is laying out near Prentice, spent several days this week securing teams and men for the job. He secured seven teams and drivers and before leaving announced that he needed more and that it will require three or four years to complete the boulevard and other grading.

—The one just past was the country's "safest and sanest" Fourth of July and as a result only 20 lives were sacrificed, as compared with 57 in 1911, and with 131 in 1910, and with 215 in 1909, according to the record kept by the Chicago Tribune. The injured numbered 640, which is a very large falling off as compared with former years. At this rate the fourth of July will be about as "safe" as any other day by-and-by.

—Judge William A. Hindman died suddenly at his home in Clarion Monday morning of acute indigestion, after an illness of but a few days. He was aged 59 years and was born and reared in Clarion Co. At the election last fall he was chosen president judge of the county as a Democrat, and in his services on the bench he gave promise of being a very popular judge. And so his unexpected death is very generally and sincerely regretted by the people of Clarion county.

—Speaking of "the first ripe tomato," none have been offered at this shop up to the hour of going to press, and it therefore becomes us to do the "early garden" stunt ourselves by announcing that, out of our own garden, we are eating the ripened fruit. So now, Mr. Smith, editor of that PUNXSUTANEY patch, where are you with that weed plot of which we heard so much last February, when the thermometer was registering all the way down to 40 degrees. Come, now, ripe tomatoes talk.

—Earl Sandt, a Brookville boy and an aviator of national fame, and who recently electrified his former neighbors and friends by making flight from Brookville to Punxsutawney and back, was perhaps fatally injured in a hundred-foot fall at Exposition Park, Conneaut Lake, Saturday when the engine of his aeroplane stopped and the machine plunged to the ground. He suffered from concussion of the brain, two broken ribs, contusion of the body and, it is believed, internal injuries.

—Farm labor is so scarce in Lawrence county that farmers are even calling up Sheriff Whaley to ascertain if there are any prisoners to be discharged soon who might likely be induced to take a job at $2 per day and board. Several such applications have been received by the sheriff within the past few days but as there have been few prisoners in jail no help has been secured. In addition to the call from farmers Sheriff Whaley has had many from contractors and manufacturing plants for laboring men.

—The regularity with which the "last raft" goes down the west branch of the Susquehanna river each spring is not any more remarkable than that with which the "last tract of virgin forest" is sold to be made into lumber. The latest of these tracts has been purchased by the Metcalf-Bowers Lumber Company from Amos and Daniel Grube. The tract lies in Bell township, Jefferson county, and consists of seventy-five acres, five of which have been reserved by the Grubes, Hemlock, oak and pine are to be found on the tract, and it is estimated that it will cut 1,600,000 feet. The tract has been a show place in the vicinity for some time, and is the only piece of untouched forest in that part of the state. A hand mill for cutting the timber will be erected at once.

—During a storm last Wednesday evening a bolt of lightning struck the house of Mrs. W. A. Grove, but fortunately injured no one and did only slight damage. The bolt followed the chimney down, exploded a hole through the tin roof and, and exploded in one of the upstairs bedrooms, Mrs. Grove and Miss Nettie Hunter were in another part of the house and were not affected, not realizing for the moment that the house had been struck. On the following evening the farm house of Warren Carl, on German Hill, was entered by a bolt, but aside from knocking a gun which stood in the corner of a room into smithereens no damage was done. A chestnut tree standing near the house of J. P. Kelley, a short distance from Carl's house, was badly shattered by a bolt of lightning the same evening. One of the members of the family in the house was prostrated for a few minutes by the shock of this bolt, but suffered no other bad effects.

—P. Monroe Clark, for the past eight years a patient at the State asylum at North Warren, has been missing from that institution since June 30. For several years he has been in good health and apparently sound in mind, so that he was allowed his liberty during the day and permitted to go out at will, but was expected to report at evening time, a condition which he had never before failed to observe. On Sunday, June 30, he went out in the woods as usual but failed to return in the evening. Diligent and persistent search of the surrounding country has been made, but without avail. Monroe was reared in Tionesta, was liberally educated and was a man of superior talents. He was a lawyer by profession and for several years held the office of district attorney in this county. Following the death of his wife and a nervous breakdown his mind became deranged and he became so violent that it was necessary to confine him in the asylum. It is said that after his mind cleared up, he often expressed a desire to be released from the institution, but the authorities did not consider such a step safe, he having once before been taken out and soon resealed into the same violent state.

—Mrs. Anderson, wife of our former townsmen, A. P. Anderson, died at the family home in Warren Friday morning, following a stroke of paralysis sustained a week previous. She was aged about 65 years, and became the wife of Mr. Anderson 11 years ago. The funeral took place from the late home of the deceased on Sunday, and was attended by a number of Mr. Anderson's children living in Tionesta. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Blum, Misses Amy and Anna Anderson.

—George F. Watson left Saturday for a trip to the Pacific coast expecting to be absent a couple of months. When he returns he will be accompanied by Mrs. Watson, who has been visiting friends in Oregon and Washington for two months past. Mr. Watson has been a very busy man for more than six months past, and feels that a rest will do him good. He has left his extensive business here in the hands of his son, Harry Watson, a member of the firm of Coleman & Watson, and when he returns he'll find the big lumbering plant in full operation and running as smoothly as though he'd been continuously on the job himself.

—A decision just handed down by Judge Sulzberger in the Philadelphia court of quarter sessions, provided it is upheld by the supreme court, will probably make considerable trouble. The jurist has declared illegal and unconstitutional the parole act of 1909 by which a maximum and minimum sentence of imprisonment may be given by judges when sentencing prisoners to the penitentiaries. By this act, providing a prisoner has behaved himself during his term in the penitentiary, he may be released on parole. Judge Sulzberger has decided that the minimum part of the law is illegal and invalidates the whole act. Just what the result of such a decision, if confirmed by the higher court, is not quite plain, but it seems that sentences under the law were illegal and that prisoners will have to be returned to the counties and again sentenced, otherwise prisoners would have to serve the maximum sentences imposed.

—Miss Nellie Turner entertained a bunch of her friends in fancy work Tuesday afternoon. It developed into an "announcement party," as telling the friends of Miss Nellie to Prof. W. W. Coon of Manila. The place cards were very handsome cards, handpainted by the pupils of Prof. Coon's school, on which was painted a Philippine water scene in which a boat figured. On the back of the cards was written, "In a banca, strong and staunch, one among you may soon launch." The conceit was very pretty. Among those present from out-of-town were Misses Justina and Alice Siggins, Miss Mary Casey, Hickory; Miss Marie Clark, Ripley N. Y.; Mrs. Barbe, Philadelphia and Miss Edith May Turner, Wilkensburg, Pa.—Tidoute News. Both Miss Turner and Prof. Coon were former residents of West Hickory, where the latter taught school before enlisting as a Philippine teacher, and both are deservedly popular with our people.

—For a time back it was feared the rattlesnake crop in these parts might be a failure this season, but from late reports we believe the day is saved. Out in the vicinity of the Lowe oil lease, on the west side, four were killed in one day last week, Billy McKee's shepherd dog snapping the heads and rattles off two of venomous reptiles with neatness and dispatch. This particular dog is a terror to snakes, it seems, and puts in a good deal of his extra time at hunting for the "varmins." Ralph Cook, who does considerable livery business with his auto, ran over and badly crippled a big yellow fellow up the Beaver Valley road the latter part of the week, and when he got out to finish the job found the snake's black mate hovering near, and made an end of both. Not less than a dozen or more have been slain out in the John's run and Hemlock creek regions, at the Douit & Foreman and the Coleman & Watson lumbering operations. A number have been killed in the heavy pine forest where the latter firm is operating, an unusual place to find rattlesnakes. The extreme heat seems to be driving them into cooler cover.

Kellettsville Wins From Tionesta.
KELLETTSVILLE, Pa., July 12, 1912. Kellettsville defeated Tionesta by bunching hits, while their opponents were unable to get the necessary single with men on bases. Several times Tionesta looked dangerous with men on second and third but the third man was an easy out. Honors were about even between Russell and Childs until the eighth, when Kellettsville got to Childs for five hits, a pass and a sacrifice fly, which netted four runs and put the game on ice. Scored:

Monday's Local Storm.

Tionesta was severely storm struck Monday evening, in fact while it lasted it was about the worst our town has ever experienced, although no serious damage resulted aside from the destruction of shade and fruit trees. Following a day's oppressive heat the storm broke shortly before six o'clock and at once assumed the proportions of a tornado with a small cloudburst accompaniment, deluging the streets, clogging sewers and turning a torrent of water over many a lawn and garden.

The nearest approach to serious happening was the striking of Sheriff Hood's dwelling house, occupied by J. B. Cottle's family, by a bolt of lightning. The bolt split the chimney, went through the roof and from there jumped over into the bathroom, evidently following the gas pipe, and descending into the cellar. Mrs. Cottle had hurried to the bathroom a moment before to close a window, and she was severely shocked by the explosion, but quickly recovered from the effect of the fright.

The greatest havoc was wrought among fruit and shade trees. A large maple next the street on the lawn of the Presbyterian manse was blown out of root and two cement blocks in the sidewalk turned up by its roots. Two trees in A. B. Kelly's lot were blown down, and one on the old Propper homestead lot. Robert Haset lost an apple tree, and a walnut tree on Mrs. Joseph Dale's lawn was damaged. Two shade trees on the Hotel Weaver lot were blown down. A large willow in front of the Urey and Farmer properties on Highland street was blown out of root, and the choicest apple tree in the editor's back yard was blown over and a good portion of the lawn dug up by the roots. G. W. Robinson lost an apple tree, and the orchard back of the M. E. church suffered severely, three apple trees and a big hickory being twisted and torn up by the roots. An apple tree in rear of the post office was twisted off at the trunk. An apple and a maple tree on the Hassey property, occupied by Station Agent Inel, were damaged and partially ruined. G. T. Anderson lost a pretty maple that stood on his lawn, and Wm. Wertz had a nice fruit tree partially destroyed. Two trees on the H. O. Davis lot occupied by Axel Arnsen, were split and badly twisted. The historic old willow, on the bank of the river, struck by lightning earlier in the season, was well light finished by the storm of Monday, having its top branches so badly twisted as to practically ruin it as a shade tree. A hickory tree on W. H. Hood's lot was twisted off ten feet above the ground. A shade tree on Judge Crawford's lawn, and a walnut on ex-Mayor Reek's lot suffered by the storm. Doubtless when the returns are all in it will be found there were many others but this list covers pretty well the havoc among the trees.

By the closing of a surface sewer back of George Wilson's meat market a torrent of water was diverted from its course and came streaming into his back door and through his building to the depth of nearly a foot, being released by the front door and for half an hour George could have furnished enough power to run a good sized saw mill. Except to cover the floor with an inch or two of mud no special damage was done.

Old residents say the storm was the worst they have ever known in Tionesta, and strange to say it did not extend over an area of much more than a mile square, the heavy wind being confined to a very narrow strip and came out of the north.

Recent Deaths.

WITHERELL.
William Emory Witherell was born at Portville, N. Y., October 6, 1846, and died at his home at Endeavor, this county, Saturday, July 13, 1912. He was a son of William and Ninnet (Basson) Witherell. On August 6, 1865, he was married at Portville to Ellen Fulver. Her death occurred some five years ago at Endeavor, where they settled soon after their marriage, and where the subject of this sketch was continuously employed by the firm of Wheeler & Dusenbury, lumbermen. Their home was blessed with a family of seven children, six of whom survive as follows: Minnie N., Franklin J., Mary E., George, W. H., H. B., and G. B. Witherell. From the pen of S. D. Irwin, Esq., we learn that Comrade Witherell was young, 16 years old, when he answered the call of President Abraham Lincoln for volunteers to defend the flag and the Union. He enlisted August 30, 1862, as a private in Co. 1, 154th N. Y. Vol., 23 Brigade, 1st Division, 11th Army Corps, and served at corps headquarters during his entire term. His battle list includes several hard fought battles, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Peach Tree Creek and Antietam. He was honorably discharged July 11, 1865, at Bandenburgh, D. C. He was one of the earliest members of Capt. Geo. Stow Post, G. A. R., and was afterwards an active and enthusiastic member of Eli Porter Post, No. 625, ever true and loyal to the principles of our beloved order, the Grand Army of the Republic, and an honored member of the same. In civil life he was a good citizen and filled many local positions of honor and trust, having been school director, road master and other offices, in which he performed his duties with honesty and fidelity. In his later years he was a Presbyterian and a valued member of the church. His useful life is ended but his memory still remains. Previous to his death he expressed a desire that a funeral should be conducted by the G. A. R., of which noble order he was so long a member and which he loved so well. That desire was strictly fulfilled for on Monday, July 15, at 2 o'clock p. m. a large company of his comrades for those days met at the Presbyterian church at Endeavor. Beautiful and appropriate hymns were rendered by the church choir, and Rev. J. F. Scherer, his pastor, delivered an able and appreciative sermon in the presence of his comrades and the large assembly of people who came in from the countryside to show their respect for this departed hero. The sermon it should be said fitted the occasion and his pastor paid a high tribute to the worth of this christian gentleman and good soldier. The active pall bearers were for the most part composed of Sons of Veterans, bright young men, who marched in admirable order from the church to the cemetery, a distance of about a mile, while the honorary pall bearers were composed of his old comrades, who rode in carriages. At the cemetery the G. A. R. took charge of the ceremonies, which were strictly performed according to the beautiful ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is always impressive. Altogether it was one of the largest and best conducted events of the kind of recent years, considering the reduced ranks of the veteran soldiers at the present time.
